

Tony Vega Bio

Tony, born on July 7, 1964, in the picturesque town of Zapotlán, Jalisco, Mexico, has been a dynamic force in his adopted community. With a fervent passion for tourism, he earned a degree in Tourism Business Administration from the University of Guadalajara. In 1994, he moved to the United States, setting the stage for his significant contributions.

In 1999, Tony established Plaza Latina in Omaha, Nebraska, a vibrant venue now celebrating its 25th anniversary. His leadership and vision were further recognized in March 2005 when he served as the President of the Nebraska Hispanic Chamber of Commerce. Fifteen years later Tony was honored with the title of President Emeritus.

Tony's influence extended into the world of entertainment when he founded MMW (Midwest Mexican Wrestling) LUCHA LIBRE MEXICANA in 2009, bringing the thrill and cultural richness of Mexican wrestling to the Midwest. His impact has also been felt across various media platforms, including radio, TV, print magazines, newspapers, and social networks.

In 2024, Tony, together with his wife Patty Chavez-Vega, co-edited "Esto es Nebraska," a digital magazine that celebrates Nebraska's diverse tourist, cultural, historical, and gastronomic treasures, with a special emphasis on the Latin American immigrant community. Through these varied endeavors, Tony continues to enhance the cultural fabric of Nebraska and beyond.
