As the second child of Merced Perez, a proud US Veteran, and Ramona Leal, Leticia's early life was shaped by the rich cultural heritage and strong family values that would guide her throughout her journey.

In 1973, Leticia's family embarked on a new chapter, relocating to the quaint community of Arcola, Illinois. There, she immersed herself in her education, attending Arcola Elementary, Middle School, and High School, before graduating from Weslaco High School in Weslaco, Texas. Fueled by ambition and a desire for growth, she pursued further education at Texas State Technical College.

During her college years, Leticia juggled academics with a job as a waitress at a local restaurant.
